

Time Hails no Suns

I'm biding my time, petrified
That we're dying, dying
I mask, every tide, every blast
But they're back again, back again

I lie, with no alibi
Till rivers go dry and wars break out, and life goes on
No dire strides, just hide the demise
Tone the words down

I sigh
With every rhyme that I devise
I can't bury deep down it's all for naught
Just calm amidst a storm

We hope time resolves every plight
Like passersby, everyone tries to look away

I play it down, burrowed in sand
Everytime I can't face signs but
Time hails no sons
Time hails no suns

And in line, we'll lie, trying to salvage, the remnants of the world
Going « why, oh why, are our children drowning now ?
Oh, but long ago, I had been told, I never tried, I felt no alarm, my daily crime.
And time, flying by, filling our coffins, with an unstoppable flow
My fear is blind, to the sight of the pouring rain
Oh, but long ago, I had been told, I never tried, I felt no alarm, my daily crime.
And here I'm standing now

Time hails no suns, time hails...
Time hails no sons, time hails no suns
Time hails... time hails...

Going « why, oh why, are our children drowning now ?
Oh, but long ago, I had been told, I never tried, I felt no alarm, my daily crime.
And time, flying by, filling our coffins, with an unstoppable flow
My fear is blind, to the sight of the pouring rain
Oh, but long ago, I had been told, I never tried, I felt no alarm, my daily crime.
